Update to PJM's Order No. 845 Compliance Filing

- On May 21, 2020, FERC issued its Order on Rehearing and Compliance in Order No. 845
- PJM required further compliance on three (3) topics:
 - Contingent Facilities
 - Advanced Technologies
 - Surplus Interconnection Service

- Directive: Include specific triggering thresholds or criteria used to identify contingent facilities in the system impact study (P 20).
- Compliance: PJM is proposing to include as a new section 205.2.2 setting forth minimum thresholds to identify reliability criteria violations based on:
 - load flow violations,
 - short circuit violations and
 - stability and dynamic criteria violations the minimum thresholds that could result in a violation

- Requirement: Transmission provider must specify the deposit amount required, e.g., $10,000 or "reasonable alternative amount, for PJM to perform a technological change study.
- Directive: Include Tariff language explicitly stating the deposit amount required, if any, to perform a technological change study. If the deposit amount is different than the $10,000 default amount specified in Order No. 845, explain why PJM's proposal constitutes a reasonable alternative to the $10,000 deposit.
- Compliance: No additional deposit will be required to study a technological change request. All such study costs will be applied to the deposit submitted with the interconnection study.

- Directive: PJM's surplus interconnection service proposal does not indicate whether PJM will provide refunds of the unused portion of the surplus interconnection service study deposit.
 PJM was directed to provide for refunds of any excess surplus interconnection service study deposits.
- Compliance: Clarify under its surplus interconnection service requirements that if any deposit monies remain after the surplus interconnection study is complete and all outstanding monies owed by the surplus interconnection customer are paid, the remaining deposit monies will be returned to the surplus interconnection customer.
